Malchow indicated he was thinking of "trying" the channel to see how swift the current was. Mr. Johnson is inclined to think Mr. Malchow may have drowned. There have been reports Malchow has been seen at the nearby Indian Mission exit. Sheriff Julian Larkin said no one has been positive about it and the speculation is if he went there at all he would not remain there this length of time. Details of Disappearance

From the Article at right: "Rhiannon told Dateline she last spoke to Sarah on November 21, 2001 - the day before Thanksgiving. "We were just talking about different things we were doing for the holidays and preparation for Thanksgiving dinner," she said. "We had pretty much spent the entire day together, and then I dropped her off at somebody's house that wasn't far from where she lived. She said, 'I'll walk home from here,' which she did." Rhiannon said she got a call the day after Thanksgiving from Sarah's mother, Linsey Martin. She was wondering if Rhiannon knew where her daughter might be. "[Sarah] had apparently left the evening before, which would have been the night of Thanksgiving," she recalled. "Sometime late at night, she had left and was picked up by an unknown individual and nobody ever saw or heard from her again."

The husband stated he didn't feel it was his responsibility because they were divorced. The three denied any knowledge of her whereabouts. Details of Disappearance

Dakota disappeared with his mother, Dayna Menger, and her friend, Junelle Marquard. They were last seen in Nekoosa when they dropped Dayna's four-year-old daughter off at the babysitter's home. The women left with Dakota, without saying where they were going or what they planned to do.

When Dayna didn't return to pick up her daughter as scheduled, the babysitter wasn't initially concerned; it wasn't uncommon for Dayna to leave the child at the babysitter's house for days at a time. But she never returned.

Although they went missing in 1999, it wasn't until 2004 that the police were informed when Dayna's brother reported her missing. Foul play is a possibility in their disappearances. Dayna's loved ones do not believe that she would have abandoned her children.
