Girl Missing After Prom

IXONIA — Police have no idea where 17 year old Cathy Sjoberg is.

The girl walked away from the Oconomowoc High School post-prom party at the Concord House near Highways 135 and I-94 in Jefferson County early Thursday morning after a spat with her boyfriend.

She was wearing a formal dress and high heels when she left the party. She didn't leave in a car.

Miss Sjoberg's parents have been divorced for a year. However, there is no indication she was depressed about her family situation.

Her mother is planning to remarry this Saturday, and her daughter was reportedly happy about the remarriage.

The girl, who just finished her junior year at Oconomowoc High School, was last seen in Delafield

Cathy Sjoberg: Missing after prom Wednesday

about 7 a.m. Thursday, three and a half hours after she left the post-prom, according to her father.

At that time she had her formal on and was walking through downtown Delafield. She hasn't been seen since.

"I don't think there's been any foul play," said Marvin Sjoberg, her father. "I just think she took off."

He added, however, that she never ran away before.

"I've been looking for her every day and every night," said Sjoberg.

Cathy lived with her mother at 1098 Marietta Ave., Ixonia. The case is being handled by the Jefferson County Sheriff's department.

Miss Sjoberg is about 5'4", weighs about 120 pounds, and has moderately long taffy-colored hair, her father said.
