Details of Disappearance

At that time he told friends that he was going hunting down south for a couple of weeks and he requested a friend take care of his animals while he was gone. According to friends David was vague about his exact location or who if anyone he would be with. They thoroughly examined Blue Mounds Park as much as possible. One possible location may be the Fox Valley in eastern Wisconsin. Friends indicated that it is not normal for David to be gone for such a long period of time and they are concerned because he does have health issues. David does not have a cell phone, and he left his vehicle at home which is not out of the ordinary because he usually rides with others. At this time it is unknown what if any vehicle he may be traveling in. David's house and property were searched with no leads as to where he might have gone. He told several people that he was going deer hunting down south (unknown location) with a friend and would be back within a week or two.
